The story begins one year after its prequel, Falling Through Trees. Kate has moved to Parker Pointe, Maine, and it seems as if everything in her life should be perfect. Though her mother passed away, she has been reunited with her son and lives near the sister she left behind years ago. Yet too quickly problems emerge: a mysterious note arrives in her mailbox, her marriage suddenly turns cold, and then the one thing that she loves most is taken away. By the end of the summer, Kate learns just how far she will go to save, and be with, the ones she loves.
