I'd always had a fantasy of being taken against my will, of being unable to resist as my body is ravaged by a stranger. Dave, my husband, it turns out wanted to play this fantasy out with me.

It seemed like such a good idea to get my friend to restrain and gag me, leaving me to be found by my husband. How was I to know that he wouldn't be the one to find me? What are the odds that it would be that night someone was to break into my house? More to the point, what are the odds that he would be everything I had hoped for and then some.
