Trailer Park Tales is the first in a series of books written for middle grade children and younger.

The book is a fictional account of a ten year old growing up in a small Trailer Park near Falls Church, VA in the 1960's. Included are accounts of several crimes that occur one summer some of which targeted much prized possessions of some of the residents there. Descriptions of events are colorful and interesting to readers who will gain attachments to the many characters. The characters are based on real people from the trailer park itself. As the character Greg Garrett I fancy myself as a child detective with all the know how and experience (I think) to solve these mysteries and recover stolen items taken during some of the crimes.
