Determined to live life on her own terms, Terra Goode took a break from the church after moving out of her parent's house. As the daughter of a Baptist deacon and a devout Sunday school teacher, she felt as if she was missing out on living the young, free and single life or as her parents would call it "the things of the world". When charming and rising street boss, Kane Powers meets Terra, he knows he wants her to himself.

Toying with the idea of leaving his playboy ways alone for good, Kane is tempted when he runs into a former flame, Cassi that also has a budding friendship with his current love. When Terra felt moved to return to her faith, it seemed all hell broke loose with her relationship with Kane.

Although Kane's love for Terra never wavered, Cassi came through for him when he needed a shoulder to lean on which led him to a compromising predicament. Will Kane's lapse in judgment be the demise of their relationship? Will Terra be able to move past Kane's mistake and agree to be his good thing?
